Be prepared for lots of fascinating information about black bear biology and ecology, with emphasis on the field identification of tracks and signs.

Sue is very excited about this show because it offers the most comprehensive discussion of bear scent-marking behaviors, illustrated with dozens of her original images.

As for living in harmony with black bears, it's entirely up to us, as this program will solidly demonstrate. "Bear safety" is achieved largely by what we do out there, whether it be in the wild or around our home and farmyard. It's more about what we can do to minimize the hazards we pose to bears.

Susan Morse is an expert wildlife ecologist and has more than thirty-seven years of field experience monitoring wildlife and interpreting habitat use all over North America. Her research has focused on cougar, bobcat, black bear, and Canada Lynx.
